Hot hotels, star stopovers and top travel tips

Borneo free She's best known for leaping through the skies in films like House of Flying Daggers, so it's fitting that tree-swingers are top of the list of Chinese actress Zhang Ziyi's charity benefactors (right). Among a growing band of stars putting their fame to work, Ziyi is supporting an orang-utan reserve in Borneo. Funded by Shangri-La hotels, the rehabilitation project is attached to Sabah's Rasa Ria Resort (inset, right; www.shangri-la.com) and prepares orphaned babies for release back into the wild, also offering hotel guests the chance to meet the apes. "I saw them up close," says Ziyi. "They are mischievous and playful. It was hard to say goodbye."

eco chic Going green has never been easier than at the luxurious new Emerald Valley private estate in Byron Bay (02-6684 9398/www.emeraldvalleyvilla.com). Set among 80 acres of tropical gardens, with rainforests beyond, it was built as a model of sustainable living, run on green power. A stunning villa sleeps eight, with marble bathrooms, a spring-water pool (left), open-air spa and an on-site concierge. From $1,000 per night.

we love: these elegant and durable leather travel wallets from Corban & Blair, $39 each, and luggage tags, $15 each; www.ciaobellatravel.com.au.

In Style EXCLUSIVE OFFER

Relax at Adelaide's Oaks Plaza Pier (right), on the beach in the seaside suburb of Glenelg. The apartment-style rooms are spacious and minimalist-chic, with private balconies and all mod cons. There's a heated indoor pool, spa, sauna and steam room, plus plenty of restaurants and cafes at the Holdfast Shores Marina next door.

Oaks Plaza Pier is offering In Style readers an exclusive rate of $125 per night on studio apartments (normally $300), for stays including a Saturday night (minimum two nights). Call 02-8263 5111 and mention In Style, or visit www.hotelclub.com.au and follow the prompts to "In Style Special". This offer is valid until September 30, 2008.

STYLISH TRAVELLER Daniel MacPherson actor

"Travel is my bug. My favourite place changes. It was once Bali, Byron Bay and southern Spain. But now it's LA—Hollywood to be exact.

I love the sun, the energy, the characters, the bars, the cars and the stars. And it makes me laugh. You never know what to expect. I recently stayed at the The London [below; www.thelondonwesthollywood.com] just off Sunset [Boulevard]. It has an incredible rooftop pool. A special memory? Chatting to Kevin Spacey about London theatre in the lift." Daniel MacPherson stars in the Seven Network police drama City Homicide.
